Hello:

As much as this wouldn't be popular as people feel entitled to use as much gasoline and electricity, thinking it's an endless supply, especially since we can go to war, killing people so we can continually indulge ourselves in our addictions.

PLEASE SPEND MONEY ON AN AGGRESSIVE EDUCATION CAMPAIGN, especially aimed at children in schools. Energy comes at a price, even solar panels and all the rechargeable batteries used daily for phones, cars, power tools. Those require minerals dug out from the earth, destroying... eh, you know: lives, land, water, et.al.

People are so indoctrinated they won't believe the "alarming" news. I wouldn't know where to start, honestly. I do not own a cell phone, have an older car well maintained and do not drive excessively. I know I'm an anomaly.

Maybe the higher rates will wake people up, but it's going to incite the poor to demand more freebies, hence make our property taxes rise.

Thank you for reading my thoughts.
